Notwithstanding it was pretty generally understood that there would be no Court last Tuesday, a considerable number of farmers came to town and spent the day in the transaction of business and talking over matters pertaining to the interests of the farming class. Upon the subject of the present year's crops, it appears from the interchange of information, between men from various parts of the county, that the harvest is much more abundant than was anticipated a month ago.

The wheat crop was fair; the yield of corn is at least an average one; buckwheat, in some localities, is turning out well, but the hay crop generally speaking was short, due to the excessive drouth. It appears to be puzzling to some of our graziers to understand how cattle thrive and kept up on this year's short grass. It is a fact, however that the large majority of our cattle went to market in fine condition and were sold at prices slightly in advance of last year. We have not been visited with contagion or epidemic; the health of the country has been excellent. And upon the whole people of Highland should neither be discouraged nor dissatisfied.

If we contrast our condition with that of portions of the West which have suffered from, not only rough, but from devastating floods and death dealing cyclones, we must conclude that we are a highly favored people and ought to be thankful and content.

Washington Letter.

Washington, Sep 24th 1894.

President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle, both of whom know how to appreciate a humorous situation, must enjoy the wild guesses of the newspaper men who are trying to find political sensations upon the slender foundation of the President and Mrs. Cleveland having visited Secretary and Mrs. Carlisle a week at Gray Gables.

It is difficult for a man possessed of ordinary common sense to believe anything sensational in the report that Secretary Carlisle had a week's rest after the harassing work he had done in connection with getting the new tariff in running order, and that he and Mrs. Cleveland would enjoy the company of Mr and Mrs Carlisle; hence the invitation. That the two gentlemen will discuss political matters perfectly natural, as a Congressional campaign is on and everybody else is discussing the same thing; but it is arrant nonsense to say that the visit has been made because of any impending political crisis. It is also perfectly natural that Senator Faulkner, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, should call upon Secretary Carlisle before he left Washington, to give him all the information in possession of the committee concerning the present status of the campaign and the outlook for democratic success. No man can be more deeply interested in the campaign than is Mr. Cleveland, and a man who draws a salary for so would pretend to find any sensational in all this and no use is doing so.

Representative Tarsney, of Missouri, who has been re-nominated who is now in Washington, resigns his State as being alright, and upon re-election he regards as a gain. Speaking of the campaign in Missouri, he said: "I attended a democratic meeting last night at Lexington, and I never more enthusiastic gathering in previous campaign. Reports all over the State indicate some feeling everywhere. I do think there is any probability of winning more than one democratic congressman, and even that is not a certainty. I refer to the St. Louis district now represented by Mr. Tarsney. Situation there is very involved at present. No nomination has been made by the democratic party, and it is difficult to make a choice of the outcome."

Two hundred yards from the point where the man was murdered there has been a small lake that until a few weeks ago, 15 feet deep early last week. There are already a number of applicants for the vacant, but it is understood that no appointment will be made until the architect office has been completely reorganized. Under the reorganization all of the business relating to the letting of contracts and kindred matters will be handled after by the Secretary of the Treasury, leaving the architect in charge of that portion of the business only for which he is by his profession especially fitted. This will doubtless be a relief to the new architect whosoever he may be. Wrangling with contractors has hitherto occupied a good portion of his time.

Secretary Herbert has gained a warm spot in the hearts of the scientists by his re-organization of the Naval Observatory, placing it under the direction of a civilian, instead of a Naval officer. Secretary Herbert's long service on the Naval committee of the House had familiarized him with the subject, which has been agitated for years. His action has given general satisfaction and there is little doubt that it will add largely to the usefulness of the observatory.

The party of distinguished democrats who went from Washington to attend the State Convention of Democratic clubs at Raleigh, N. C. brought back nothing but good words for the condition and hospitality of North Carolina democracy. They also brought the assurance of those who know that there was not the slightest danger from the alleged combine between the republicans and the populists to control the legislature and elect a republican and a populist Senator. The democratic managers in the State are certain that the next legislation will be democratic, regardless of any combination that can possibly be made to prevent it, and that North Carolina will continue to be represented in the U. S. Senate by two good democrats.

Control of the currency Eckels, who has just returned from an extended western trip, says he found everywhere unmistakable evidences of a general revival of business, and he believes that this improvement in business is going to be an important factor in the Congressional election. His idea is that the men who were so quick to blame the democratic party for the bad times will be equally as quick to credit the party with return of good times and to vote to keep it in power as a reward therefor.

COLD BLOODED MURDER.

Relative of Sam Jones Arrested as an Accessory.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 19.—Telegrams have been sent to the police authorities of Cincinnati to keep a special lookout for Will Meyers, a young man of 19, whose father, B. P. Meyers, was for years a Pinkerton detective in that city. The fugitive is wanted on a charge of murder, his victim having been Forest L. Crowley, a wealthy stockman of Cobb County, Georgia.

Crowley came to the city yesterday and displayed a roll of $500 in bills besides other money. Meyers at once took him in tow, the pair hiring a buggy to go out and look at some property. After that time neither of the men were seen. Crowley's father came to the city in the evening and gave the alarm of his son's disappearance.

Captain Wright of the detective force traced Meyers and the dead man to a point about a mile beyond the terminus of the street car line. The two men had there turned to the left and gone through Westwood Park. Here the search ended until this morning, when Detective Carson and the father resumed it.

This morning they began a thorough search of the park. After an hour's work the father and detective found the body of the young man lying at the foot of a small hill. He was lying on his back, with his face in a horribly mutilated condition and his head crushed in. The back of his skull was crushed, which showed that he had been struck from the rear. Around his body the ground showed signs of a desperate struggle. After the first blow Crowley had been beaten over the head. He had in his inner coat pocket a large leather pocket-book in which was $500. This book was taken, but his murderer in evident haste failed to find another book in his trousers pocket that contained $129.30.

Two hundred yards from the point where the man was murdered there has been a small lake that until a few weeks ago, 15 feet deep at one place. It was evidently the intention of the person doing the murder to throw the body of the man into this place. The lake was drained some time ago, and now nothing but a muddy bottom remains. After finding that the lake was dry the party had driven over the dam and up a small road. There the horse was hitched, and the men walked over a small hill. There were no trees in a hundred yards of the place, and it was perfectly open. In the place the murder was committed, and the body of the man left there to be found by the distracted father 24 hours after the terrible deed had been committed.

Meyers recently visited Crowley's home, and it is claimed that then he laid the plot for the murder of his victim. It is now certain that two men must have been concerned in the murder, and the police have arrested Charley Jones, a relative of Sam Jones, as the accessory.—The Republic.

It appears from exchanges of later date that Meyers was arrested at a Hotel in Cincinnati, Ohio, and taken back to Atlanta Ga., to await his trial. And that in telling his story, he admits that he took Crowley in a buggy to the Park, where they were met by a man named Brown Allen; that Allen took Crowley some distance away, under the pretense of looking at some property, that in a short time Allen returned alone and excitedly handed him a purse with some money in it and a watch and told him that if he ever told this thing he would kill him. The watch, it seems had been pawned by Meyers, but was recovered.

Recent developments, it seems, practically exonerate Jones from complicity in this diabolical deed.

The Wool Question.

The statisticians of the country show that wool has uniformly brought less prices under high than low tariffs. There must be a cause for this effect, and that cause is the fact that our factories need foreign wool to mix with the domestic wool, and when the tariff is high the foreign wool is shut out and the demand, and consequently the price, for the domestic wool is decreased. There are 133 grades of wool used in our factories of which the United States produces but 55. When the other grades were taxed so heavily by the McKinley tariff that they could not enter, our wool became practically valueless. Now that wool is admitted free to this country and other grades can be procured to mix with our own growth our product of wool is increased into demand, and the price increased. Now that wool is free of all tax, under the late Democratic tariff, wool is commanding a better price, as the Democrats maintained would be the case. It will not take the wool-growers very long to learn that it will be in the future, as in the past, that the price of wool will increase with the reduction of the tariff on it, and as the tariff is now taken wholly off wool, its price will increase. The fact that wool has already increased in price, shows the fallacy of the theory of the protectionists who have for years been pulling the wool over the eyes of the wool-growers.—Spectator.

The Delinior For June is called the Summer Number, and is a superb number in every respect, the amount of practical and interesting reading matter being largely increased. The article in the College series describes A Girl's Life and Work at Smith, and is written by a recent and brilliant graduate. There is also a very suggestive and entertaining paper on A German-School Commencement. Nursing as an employment for Women as ably treated by Louise Darce, Superintendent of the New York City Training School for Nurses. An appropriate "pattern" article, in addition to the regular monthly issue, is on dress for Summer Sports, and another, equally suitable to the time, gives information on Trunks and Trunk Packing. The opening chapter on Vocal Culture, by the author of Delsarte Culture, is in this number, and should as beneficial as the series just closed. The papers on Hygienic Living are continued; and the confidence that should exist between Mother and Daughter is the theme of the article bearing that title. A Rosebud Party is described, and other contributions are How to Serve Small Fruits Daintiness in the Home, the ever popular Tea-Table Gossip, and Among the Newest Books. The articles on Knitting, Tatting, Netting and Crocheting show many original and attractive designs.

The Subscription Price of the Delinior is One Dollar a Year. Single Copies, Fifteen Cents.

A Few Facts.

A remedy has been found which cures chronic diseases: not in every case, but in a large percentage of them. And in cases too far gone for cure, it affords relief and often prolongs life. Many who have been given over by physicians have been prevailed upon by friends to try this remedy, the Compound Oxygen Treatment of Drs. Starkey & Palen, of Philadelphia, and now living to testify to its curative powers. It has been successful in curing many cases of catarrh, malarial fever, hay fever, asthma, bronchitis, neuralgia, nervous prostration, and other chronic diseases. In these diseases physicians have had little success, as the name they have given to this class of disorder indicates, but Compound Oxygen has worked wonders.

There is only one genuine Compound Oxygen, and any substance made elsewhere or by others than Drs. Starkey and Palen, is spurious. Avoid imitations.

If you wish to learn more of this wonderful remedy, send for our book of 200 pages, sent free, with numerous testimonials and records of surprising cures.

To relieve the problem requires thought. But the simple food is known to many—that Dr. Fenner's Golden Relief cures Consumption. It does it every time, and in every case, when used before the lungs have become too far disorganized. Here is a typical case: Miss Jones, aged 23, has lost 35 pounds, cheeks have the "hollow flush"; coughs and raises all the time; has just returned from the South, where she spent the winter. Did not improve. She takes 5 drops of Dr. Fenner's Golden Relief, on a small lump of sugar, once in 2 hours. Improvement begins at once. In 2 weeks she has gained 10 pounds. In 6 weeks she weighs 130 and is cured. The remedy is a SPECIFIC IN INFLAMMATION. No inflammation, no soreness, no consumption. Thus it cures a long list of ailments from a common sore throat, to a grave bronchitis, asthma and consumption, from a toothache to a grave neuralgia, from a headache to a grave rheumatism and from summer complaint to a grave dysentery, cholera or flux. This wide range of application has sometimes unjustly caused it to be dubbed a "cure all." But it isn't. It cures one disease, and that is inflammation. Inflammation cannot exist in its presence—and that "solves the problem." One tablespoonful cures La Grippe. It never disappoints. Contains no opiates, narcotics or mineral poisons. Perfectly safe. Money refunded if satisfaction not given. Take home a bottle to-day.
